Legal recognition in a foreign country of medical certificates issued in Portugal

Please note GAP does not have competences to authenticate signatures in medical certificates or declarations. Should a document of such nature be required by a foreign entity, the following steps shall be taken:

- a) If a medical certificate contains an official seal of a medical doctor, GAP may issue a declaration;
- b) If the medical certificate contains only the signature of a medical doctor, the certificate must be recognized by a notary and then be submitted to GAP for the issuing of a declaration.

Additional Information – The Hague Convention

Portugal is Party to the Convention Abolishing the Requirement of Legalization for Foreign Public Documents – The Hague Convention, with the Attorney General of the Republic being the competent authority for issuing and verifying apostilles (Article 2 (1) of Decree-Law no. 86/2009, of April 3).

The legalization of Portuguese public acts aimed at producing legal effects in foreign States that are party to the Hague Convention (please see the Hague Conference website: <https://www.hcch.net/en/instruments/conventions/status-table>) is under the responsibility of the Prosecutor General of the Republic (PGR), as competent authority for issuing and verifying apostilles (<http://www.ministeriopublico.pt>). Claimants requiring such service should contact the PGR.

GAP does not intervene in cases where a document has an apostille.
